Laser Hair Removal

LSR-210

ONE WEEK

Laser hair removal is a medical procedure that uses a concentrated beam of light (laser) to remove unwanted hair. During laser hair removal, a laser emits a light that is absorbed by the melanin pigment in the hair. The light energy is converted to heat, which damages the tube-shaped sacs within the skin called hair follicles that produce hairs. This damage inhibits or delays future hair growth.

Laser Vein Removal

LSR-230

ONE WEEK

Endovenous laser varicose vein surgery is a procedure that uses heat from a laser to reduce varicose veins. Varicose veins are swollen, bulging veins that often happen on the thighs or calves. A laser is a device that sends a thin beam of radiation in the form of light.

A laser vein removal treatment is performed on the outside of your skin. It can treat spider veins and tiny varicose veins just under the skin's surface. Usually, more than one laser session is needed.

Laser Tattoo Removal

LSR-320

ONE WEEK

Tattoo removal is most commonly performed using lasers that break down the ink particles in the tattoo into smaller particles. Dermal macrophages are part of the immune system, tasked with collecting and digesting cellular debris. In the case of tattoo pigments, macrophages collect ink pigments, but have difficulty breaking them down. Instead, they store the ink pigments. If a macrophage is damaged, it releases its captive ink, which is taken up by other macrophages. This can make it particularly difficult to remove tattoos. When treatments break down ink particles into smaller pieces, macrophages can more easily remove them.

Laser Skin Tightening

LSR-308

ONE WEEK

Laser skin tightening is a minimally invasive, non-surgical process that uses a focused laser to tighten skin by heating the collagen under the skin's surface, causing the skin to contract and tighten. Facial skin tightening is noticeable immediately after the treatment and there is no downtime, making this an increasingly popular procedure.

Radio Frequency (RF)

LSR-333

ONE WEEK

Radio-frequency (RF) skin tightening is an aesthetic technique that uses radio frequency (RF) energy to heat skin with the purpose of stimulating cutaneous collagen, elastin and hyaluronic acid production in order to reduce the appearance of fine lines and loose skin. The technique induces tissue remodeling and production of new collagen and elastin. The process provides an alternative to facelift and other cosmetic surgeries.

Cryolipolysis

WGT-312

ONE WEEK

Cryolipolysis is a method in which fat cells are tackled by means of a cold treatment. It is a safe and reliable method which requires neither an operation nor anaesthetic. We're all familiar with cold treatments, such as an ice pack for strained muscles and joints. Coolsculpting works on the basis of Cryolipolysis, using controlled freezing to cool fat cells until they crystallise. The body then gradually disposes of the fat cells in a natural manner.
